

Sunday, June 17, Is Father's Day

DAD

Always my counsellor, always my friend,
Always with patience his help would he lend,
Always at hand when life's problems I met,
Always consistent, understanding my mould,
Midst all my sorrows as true as gold.

Always first to wish me luck,
Always the first to praise my pluck,
Always at hand to give me a tip,
Usually saying, "Keep a stiff upper lip."
Always at hand whether rain or shine,
The same old sport, this Daddy of mine.

Old age overtook him, and now under the sod,
Lies his old body, but nearer to God.
I shall never forget him as long as I live.
He asked of me nothing, but always did give,
He's the greatest hero his son ever had,
My dear old loving, kind old Dad.

Copyrighted by Harry Parrott

OTHER HOOSIER PAPERS SAY

Within sight of the city's church steeples and court house tower, set back in the hills that form the west valley wall of the Wabash river, is the site of the third proposed community swimming hole.—Wabash Plain Dealer.

W. H. Moore has been appointed by the American Legion post to compile a list of the burial places of all deceased World War veterans in and near Vincennes, and preserve it as a permanent record.—Vincennes Commercial.

That farmers of Shelby county and surrounding communities are greatly interested in the Shelbyville Mill Products Company plant, was demonstrated on Monday when the establishment, located on the Columbus whose two to fourteen year sentence was officially opened.—Shelbyville Democrat.

A three-cornered contest has developed over the Democratic nomination for Joint Senator for Jackson, Scott and Washington Counties to fill the place on the ticket made vacant by the resignation of Thomas H. Branaman, of Brownsown.—Scott County Journal.

Prosecutors today denied they promised a light sentence to ex-

Good Yield In Henryville Forest Since 1920

CLARK COUNTY RESERVATION YIELDS $10,000 WORTH OF LUMBER 8 YEARS

(Special to The Evening News) Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—In excess of $10,000 worth of products in the way of ties, lumber, posts and fuel wood have been sold off the 5,000 acre state forest at Henryville since 1920, according to a report Ralph F. Wilcox, acting state forester, has filed with Richard Lieber, state conservation director.

This earning from the state's experimental reserve demonstrates that proper forest management pays big returns, and is the more remarkable because this entire area was logged over in 1908 for everything that would make a cross tie. Because of this wholesale cutting which took place prior to creation of the department of conservation, forest operations were more or less suspended until 1924.

In the last few years through scientific forestry this reserve has been started well on its way as a money maker, and in 1927 all operating expenses, exclusive of supervision and interest on the investment, were paid on the tract by the cutting and

SPEAKER URGES CO-OPERATION AMONG LOCAL BUSINESS MEN TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS HERE

Manager Of Merchants Institute Says Too Many Merchants Buy Out Of City, When They Should Buy From Fellow Citizens

New Subdivision On Highway 31 At Auction Sale

ADDITION TO BE OPENED BY VOIGT REALTY COMPANY ON JUNE 26 IS ONE OF BEST LOCATIONS IN DISTRICT

Every day there is evidenced in Jeffersonville the influence that is felt by the coming of the new traffic bridge across the Ohio.

Never in its history has real estate moved so readily as it is now doing and this will be more in evidence as the work progresses on the new structure.

Real estate anywhere in Jeffersonville or immediate vicinity is a good investment. Those who have an opportunity to buy in the new additions and sub-divisions now being opened will make no mistake if they purchase one or more lots or tracts.

Among the sub-divisions to be opened to the public for sale is that located on U. S. Highway 31 E, at Applegate Lane and which will be sold at auction by the Voigt Insurance and Realty Company, on Tuesday, June 26, beginning at 10 a. m.

This property is splendidly located only one and one-half miles north of the city and the view from the property is a beautiful one. The new Pennsylvania Shops will in all likelihood be located close to the property on the east side of Highway 31, about one-half mile north of the sub-division. With the completion of the bridge, residents in this location will be only a ten minute drive from the heart of Louisville.

According to the Voigt Realty Company, every lot will be sold at auction and there will be no by-bids. Convenient terms have been arranged so that the purchaser of limited means may pay for the property on monthly payments.

The company is also offering a gold prize for the person who submits a name for the new sub-division and which is accepted by the company.

On the day of the sale the ladies of the Home Economics Club of Utica will serve a luncheon on the property.

Cole Says Club Enrollments Are

Declaring that many merchants are Salary, or Income Wise—and Opportunity Foolish, Mr. J. W. Griest, manager of the Retail Merchants Institute, of Chicago, closed the Better Business Congress with one of the best addresses of the five days, the Dream theatre, Friday night.

Mr. Griest said in his last address of the Congress that much of the trouble with Jeffersonville is that the merchants do not co-operate to the extent they should. "The Merchants of Jeffersonville," said Mr. Griest, do not expect other people to buy from them when they do not buy from each other. "Don't think for a moment," Mr. Griest said, "that your customers do not know that the merchants and their wives buy in Louisville or other places out of the city. Until you give your local merchants the first chance to serve you, something will always be the matter with Jeffersonville."

Mr. Griest illustrated his point with the telling of a grocer in a city in Michigan who had purchased his house knock-down affair from a mail order house, then kicked because some of the people in his city did not trade with him. He told of a bank in Youngstown, Ohio, with a beautiful display window which had refused to allow local lumber company to make a play in it, but which, a few weeks later allowed a mail order house to display a model house in it with the tools necessary for its construction.

"What is the matter with Jeffersonville?" Mr. Griest said, "is a question I have had asked me a number of times since I came to your city. The matter with Jeffersonville is too petty jealousies. One merchant is to be afraid that the other fellow is going to get ahead. That is the wrong attitude. Your competition is not it comes from without. The merchants here should co-operate, praise one another, forget your jealousy and work together."

Mr. Griest pointed out that the congested condition of the big cities, the smaller communities coming into their own and suggesting that specialty shops would be a fine proposition. He told of stores on Spring street, which with a paint, a new window, a few decorations, could be made into beautiful shops.

He urged that at least forty city merchants, banks and professional people sign the "Code of Ethics for a Bargain Day once a month twelve months and the first day run early in July. He predicted if this was strictly adhered to it would bring much trade into the city and out in the country.

The meetings have all been well attended and those who have heard Griest are unanimous in stating he brought a wonderful message to the business people and sales